Germany Claims Counter-Attack Repulses Russian Assault

(By International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 19—Important docks and airfields on bomb-scarred Pantelleria Island, Axis bastion in the Mediterranean, lay in ruins today after American medium bombers had dealt that base a terrific new blow.

In the fifth Allied assault of recent days against installations on Pantelleria, the American planes swept over their objectives and loosed 200,000 pounds of bombs upon harbor works and airfields.

Simultaneously, the Sicilian harbor of Trapani was rocked in a heavy raid which resulted in large fires to dock areas. During the assault, executed yesterday, six ships were hit by heavy bombs and one of the vessels exploded.

BERLIN, May 19—The high command today claimed a German counter-attack on the Kuban front in Russia repulsed a strong Soviet assault which was supported by heavy artillery, planes and tanks. One Nazi division alone was said to have destroyed 15 Red army tanks.

Destruction of 25 Allied planes by German planes and anti-aircraft over the Sicilian coast, the English Channel and Atlantic Coast also was claimed. Large bombs were reported dropped on "military targets in the London area" by German planes last night.

NEW DELHI, May 19—Renewed patrol activity and British aerial assaults on Japanese bases and concentrations were described in today's India Command communiqué on the war at the Arakan front in Burma.

One British ground patrol which encountered 42 Jap troops reconnoitering in the Tanhazhar area killed 15 and captured two. Bombers attacked Nipponese supply concentrations.

LONDON, May 19—Powerful squadrons of Allied planes dived high over the Fokstone region of England this afternoon and headed toward the French city of Boulogne on the heels of new night attacks on enemy communication lines.

The seventh straight day of the Anglo-American aerial offensive against continental Europe was ushered in by assaults made by long-range RAF fighters against Axis communication and supply links over a wide area. At least 20 Axis trains were attacked during the night assault, the Air Ministry disclosed.

WOULD MAKE AXIS PAY WAR COST TO ALLIES

By International News Service
DENVER—(INS)—In the opinion of 64 per cent of Americans interviewed, Germany and Japan should pay for what the war has cost the United States and its allies, a nationwide survey released by the National Opinion Research Center at Denver University showed. Some 49 per cent believe the Allies should pay for the materials sent them under the Lend-Lease Act, the survey indicated.

The opinions concur with previous national surveys made by the Center in February and July, 1942.

DISCUSSES FEET AND BEAKS OF THE BIRDS

Mrs. Mary W. Peters Gives Illustrated Talk At Newtown

FOR SCIENCE ASS'N

NEWTOWN, May 19—Bucks County Natural Science Association opened its new series of educational meetings on Saturday at Newtown high school, with Stevenson W. Fletcher, Jr., presiding.

Mrs. Mary W. Peters was the first speaker. "Birds—Their Feet and Beaks" being her topic. Mrs. Peters informed that "The ankle of a bird is mostly long and reptile-like and covered with scales. In some cases the tarsus, as it is technically called, is covered with feathers. Great adaptation is noted in birds' feet—whether the need is for perching, for wading, for swimming, etc. A look at a bird's foot will usually tell of its habitat and its method of living. In perching birds there are three toes in front and one behind, the latter being a great aid in maintaining the perch. Many birds have two toes in front and two behind, while a certain Arctic country yellow-headed woodpecker has only three toes—two front and one back. Various degrees of webbed feet were also mentioned.

"As for bills—a curved or hooked beak is best for flesh eating; a flat bill for pushing through mud and straining out the food; the snipe needs a long bill for probing; a woodpecker a sharp straight one for piercing bark. The insect eaters—such as fly-catchers and the seed eaters like finches, require still other bill construction." Mrs. Peters showed many plates which she had drawn to illustrate the variations of both feet and beaks. Continued On Page Four

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Retreat On Home Front

Washington, May 18.

IT is not possible, of course, to have two Presidents—one to concentrate on foreign policy and military matters and the other devoting himself to domestic affairs and management. But it would be helpful, indeed, if that could be arranged. For, quite plainly, Mr. Roosevelt is not functioning effectively in both directions.

THE ADEQUACY— and at times, brilliancy—of his performance in the fields of diplomacy and military strategy are at least balanced by his instability and inconsistencies in the less remote but equally vital area. Elation over the success of our forces abroad cannot help but be diminished by the mortifying Administration retreats on the home front.

THE CONTRAST is great and generally recognized. Some of the President's closest friends and advisers discuss it with extraordinary candor. The plausible explanations are few. One is that Mr. Roosevelt's interest in military and foreign policy is so overwhelming that he is bored by the domestic problems and either unable or unwilling to concentrate on them. Another is that he just has not got the time to deal with them adequately. Another is that in the foreign field he is untroubled by the political considerations or personal prejudices which constantly protrude at home. These considerations cannot be disregarded—or, at least, he cannot disregard them—and they are responsible for much of the Washington muddle where so many inadequate men wrestle with jobs far beyond their power.

PERHAPS the best example of Administration retreats on the home front.

DR. GUENTHER SPEAKS TO CLUB AND GUESTS

Ladies' Night Observed By Bensalem Rotarians At A Banquet

TELLS OF GERMANY

TORRESDALE, May 19—Individuals instrumental in organizing Bensalem Rotary Club were guests of honor at the anniversary and "Ladies' Night" program last evening, the banquet taking place at Torresdale Country Club. A speaker of exceptional merit was included on the program, as were also other excellent entertainment numbers.

Covers were arranged for 54, and guests of honor were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boehm, Morrisville; Miss Harner and Richard W. Fechtenburg, Edgington; and Mrs. Samuel K. Faust, Hulmeville. Another invited guest, Dr. J. Fred Wagner, Bristol, was unable to attend.

S. Penn Salmon, club president, welcomed the gathering, and later presented C. Burnley White as master of ceremonies. To each woman attending a corsage of flowers and a box of silk hosiery were presented.

The guest speaker was Leonard Guenther, Ph. D., who lived in Germany until 1939 when he came to the United States. Dr. Guenther, a lawyer, now resides at Elmhurst, L. I., and last evening gave much information to Rotarians and guests regarding living conditions in Germany. He stated that he has learned much of his English from his fourth grade son. During the past year Dr. Guenther has addressed approximately 100 Rotary Clubs.

He informed that members of his father's family were mainly farmers, and that on his mother's side there was a small fraction of Jewish blood, but he because of this was classed in Germany as a non-Aryan. He told that facts as represented in "the better newspapers" as regards conditions in Germany are not exaggerated. He informed that he was a corporation lawyer for a Swiss corporation in Germany, and due to this fact was able to perform his duties longer than many others, adding that because of his position he had to do business with Hitler and his regime. The speaker stressed the point that he was not a prosecuting attorney or defense lawyer, but a "witness" of facts expressed in an unbiased and unemotional manner.

Dr. Guenther mentioned three important groups of German people: 1. the anti-Hitler group which does not express its views, but merely submits; 2. the Nazis (and on this score he told that the use of the term "Nazi" in Germany is punishable by assignment to a concentration camp, the "proper" term being National Socialist); 3. large group of "in-betweens," who "move with the wind" ready to shout with joy or to condemn, according to how things turn out under the Hitler regime.

The speaker told of experiences in leaving Germany, adding that many of the Gestapo are not in sympathy with the Nazi movement, but are loyal to the last inch to their superior officers regardless of convictions. The young Nazis were mentioned as being the most loyal to the regime, more loyal to that cause as a rule than to their families or friends. "Although there is an undercurrent against Hitler, it is local, and not on a national scale," Rotarians were informed. "If I have any value of prediction I would not expect the German nation to collapse as such unless the bulk of the German army is defeated in Europe. The morale will hold up, at least outwardly, until then."

Not until the Allies have sufficient troops in Europe will Germany collapse, but when that sufficiency is noted "it will be as swift as the collapse in Africa" was the opinion of the native German. "In 1918 the Germans considered that it was impossible to resist in the face of such a superior force, and the same condition in this war would no doubt be needed to bring about the same results."

That 80 per cent of the Germans live on very little was an observation presented. Dr. Guenther told of seeing one meal served at an institution in this country, and stated that it would have been considered a meal of luxury compared to the meal of most people in Germany. The upper 20 per cent generally

12 RED CROSS WORKERS GIVE 254 HOURS

97 Sewed Garments and 46 Knitted Garments Were Made

OTHER WORK FINISHED PICTURES ARE SHOWN

The regular meeting of the Executive Board, Bristol Branch, American Red Cross, was held at 120 Mill street, Monday afternoon, with the chairman, Mrs. Russell DeLong, presiding. The minutes for April 17th were read by the secretary, Mrs. Samuel Roberts. Mrs. DeLong stated that on Wednesday, May 26, a luncheon at 12.30 will be held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. At 10.30 a. m., a Canteen discussion will take place and, in the afternoon, Home Service, Blood Donors and various services will be discussed.

Mrs. Elwood P. Goslin, chairman of the Volunteer Special Services, gave an interesting account of a meeting recently attended. Mrs. Goslin reported that the Home Service report was exceedingly interesting in that personal experiences of soldiers with Red Cross were cited. A sailor was brought from California in 48 hours to the bedside of his wife, who was to undergo a very serious operation. The Valley Forge Hospital for Psychoneurosis patients expects the cooperation of all branches of Red Cross of this area to help in providing comforts and entertainment for the many mentally incapacitated men of the United States armed forces. Mrs. David Sheerer, chairman of the Canteen, reported that, for the month, 97 hours were given by the Canteen members. Mrs. Sheerer expressed the appreciation of all who took the nutrition and canteen course of instruction for the certificates recently received from headquarters. A new canteen class with Mrs. Carter as instructor is being considered. Telephone 2476 if you are interested.

Miss Frances H. Landreth, of the Home Service Department, reported one old case and six new. Miss Landreth gave 12½ hours of service. Mrs. Walter Pitzonka, chairman of Home Nursing, spoke of the service offered Bristol Terrace.

The Blood Donor Service is starting a list of volunteers for the next time the Unit visits Bristol. Telephone Bristol 2476. A refresher course in Instructors' First Aid began last week, taught by Mr. Gordon Nobotny, of S. E. Chapter. For five weeks, on Friday from seven to 9 p. m., Mr. Nobotny will teach this mandatory course.

Mrs. Max R. Seigel, in giving her account of the progress "Books For Soldiers" is receiving, stated that people are buying books to be sent to the camps of our country. For further information telephone 2349.

The Production report is as follows: 12 workers gave 254 hours making 97 sewed garments; 46 knitted garments; 149 kits made. Thirty-three women gave 309 hours making 1451 surgical dressings. Mrs. Holland reported that during the month there were 26 family cases. Thirty-four were active, with one civilian and one ex-service case. Mrs. Holland explained the procedure required for families contacting service men.

Charles J. Urban Slightly Wounded in North African Area on March 31st

Another Bristol boy has been wounded in action, according to a telegram received by his sister here, last night.

The telegram was received by Mrs. Victoria Farina, 239 Mulberry street, that her brother, PFC Charles J. Urban was slightly wounded in action on March 31 in the North African Area.

It was stated in the telegram that reports as to his condition would be received every 15 days and that Mrs. Farina would be advised accordingly. Urban left Bristol October 1941 with a selected group from the Local Selective Service Board.

Florence Brownell Will Speak at Reception Here

The Travel Club will on Friday evening at eight o'clock hold a reception for members of the Junior Club.

Miss Florence Brownell, of New Jersey, will deliver an address, her subject being "United Nations and the Post-War World."

Miss Brownell, a popular speaker on international affairs, is well equipped by study, travel and inclination to talk on current topics of national and international interest. It is stated. She has studied subjects ranging from journalism and public speaking, to history and political science at Mt. Holyoke College, the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, and other institutions of learning.

For two years she was employed by the American Red Cross, two years by an advertising agency, for one year by a book publishing concern; and conducts a weekly column, "Foreign Affairs in Focus," in the Main Line Times.

In 1939 she visited Norway, Sweden, Finland and Estonia, and was a member of one of the first groups to be permitted to enter Russia after World War I. In the summer of 1936 she served on the American Committee in Geneva where in addition to her duties as hostess to visiting Americans she took full advantage of League of Nations assembly meetings. In 1940 she visited Mexico. She organized the International Forum of the Borough of Queens for New York League of Nations Society.

HAMM GOES TO JAIL ON ARSON CHARGE; 6 TO 23 MONTHS

Judge Says That To Suspend Sentence Was Impossible

LENIENCY PLEA MADE

Defendant Had Never Been In Trouble Before, Police Reported

DOYLESTOWN, May 19—The seriousness of the crime of arson—missing from the criminal court calendar of Bucks county for some time—was again emphasized yesterday when John Hamm, 43, of Garden st., Bristol, was sentenced to the Bucks County Prison for six to twenty-three months for setting fire to a $50 garage that resulted in $20 damage.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Calvin S. Boyer. Hamm pleaded guilty on Monday to the charge. He set fire to a small frame garage building at 928 Mansion street, Bristol. On the witness stand he testified that he was "under the influence of liquor at the time." According to Chief of Police Jones of Bristol, Hamm at first stated that he set fire to the building "because he got a thrill out of seeing the fire engines."

Hamm, according to witnesses bore an excellent reputation before this offense. He had never been in any kind of trouble before, police reported, and he held a good job in a Bristol plant. Mrs. Hamm, the defendant's wife, told the court that her husband's drinking habits were moderate.

Sentence was deferred by Judge Boyer who conferred with Judge Hiram H. Keller before pronouncing sentence yesterday afternoon.

"To suspend sentence in this case is impossible," Judge Boyer remarked after listening to a plea for leniency voiced by Hamm's attorney, State Senator Howard L. James.

"The sentence that I am imposing is largely for the example that it will be for others, and to protect the public," Judge Boyer continued. "If the court would suspend sentence in this case, the public would criticize from every side."

A fine of $50 and costs was imposed by Judge Boyer on Thomas Perlingiero, of 1430 South Street. Continued On Page Four

MAJOR FACTOR

It must be evident to many persons that the Office of War Information, in warning the American people of a serious food situation, cannot know what the food crops will total until all the returns are in. That will be several months from now.

Kansas wheat production has ranged from 11,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels a year, within half a decade. There was in each instance a large acreage. Weather conditions produced the difference in yields. Does the OWI claim to know what the weather will be like in Kansas this year?

Weather enters into the production of all crops, except those in the irrigated areas where production is fairly constant. But even irrigation does not save a crop from a hazard like sudden cold.

If climatic conditions generally are favorable between now and harvests throughout the country, there will be tremendous outputs of food because acreages in all lines exceed those of last year. If climatic conditions are not favorable, crops will be smaller. But this may mean merely that less food will be available for shipment abroad.

This country has seen enough of crop variations in recent years to be convinced that weather is the all-important factor. Fortunately, the food-producing states have received a good start toward abundant crops. If favorable weather conditions continue, there will be tremendous supplies of the basic foods.

BEAUTY SUBSTITUTES

American women are keeping themselves attractive through use of a derivative of coal instead of coloring made from insects. These insects were once scooped up by the millions (70,000 are required to weigh a pound) in foreign countries. Now lipstick and rouge, as well as many other beauty aids, dip deeply into America's coal mines to obtain the coal tar dyes for their tints. A quarter of a million pounds of these dyes is being used annually by the cosmetics industry.

Statistical information released through government agencies generally is dull reading, but news of how women are solving their cosmetics needs takes on a different hue because nearly every household in America is affected. Attractive vanity cases, made of metals, are no longer to be found tucked away in nooks and corners of every home. Beauty doesn't come in fancy packages these days.

Face powder, used by at least 90 per cent of American women, had for its base and bulk so-called French chalk. This high grade talc is mined in Italy, France, India and Canada, and has flowed into the United States at the rate of approximately 28,000,000 pounds a year. The product of Carolina talc mines has been substituted for foreign talc.

Letters To Editor

(The opinions expressed in the following communications are not necessarily those of the editor.)

Editor, Courier:
Some people complain about snow back East. But if you ever visit Portland, Ore., you will complain about the rain. It just seems to be raining all the time.

I am stationed in the Qm. Bn. of the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Belvoir, Ill. I have been here since 1941. I have seen a lot of things. I have seen a lot of people. I have seen a lot of things. I have seen a lot of people.

About the service centers here—I think they are some of the best out. They have what you would call waiting places and people will give you a lift to wherever you are going. The people here are very friendly and the hospitality is wonderful towards a service man.

Well, I can't think of much more to write, but if you keep buying war bonds (which I never knew meant so much until I came into the Army), we will win this war and everyone will be home a lot sooner.

Yours truly,
P. F. C. NORMAN L. SHEMELEY

ORANGE, N. J. (INS)—The laundryman is ready for emergency action in Orange. Red Cross officials have instituted a plan that recruits all laundry trucks and drivers for emergency work following any disaster or air raid. The trucks are ideally suited for ambulances, Orange officials say.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Administration ineptitude in domestic affairs is in its attitude on taxes. Though a comprehensive and drastic taxation program is basic in any anti-inflation policy, the President neither personally nor through the Treasury, at any time since the war began has had anything approaching an adequate program. The only Treasury policy has been a negative policy. It has supplied no financial leadership and the Presidential influence has been effectively used merely to block, first, a general sales tax, which is the only feasible way by which additional revenue can be raised; and, second, the Ruml plan, which is the sanest, simplest and fairest method proposed to collect taxes. In his letter yesterday threatening to veto the bill passed by the Senate and which probably kills it, there is much to justify the charge that he approaches the issue from the political angle, little to sustain the view that he has a clear understanding of it.

ANOTHER Administration retreat in domestic affairs, explainable only on the ground of weakness, is furnished by the recent "directive" of Economic Stabilizer Byrnes to the War Labor Board and lends itself to either one or both of these explanations. And it is additional evidence that the Administration has no anti-inflation policy at all. Though Mr. Byrnes is the President's chief aide, to whom he has delegated large powers, it is unlikely he would issue such an order without the approval of the President, because it so clearly and completely nullifies the President's public instructions of a few weeks ago to "hold the line." The line, of course, was the line against inflation and Mr. Byrnes, following the Presidential mandate, at once forbade any further wage increases.

A GOOD deal of surface firmness was exhibited by the Administration at the time, and the expectation was that the President would at least stand by the freezing order. But a month has elapsed and the wage-freezing order has now been modified. The reins on the War Labor Board which has been drawn tight have been loosened and again it is permitted to make "wage adjustments," which is merely another name for increases as adjustments are uniformly upward.

IT IS a full retreat. Actually, so much discretion is allowed the WLB by the new directive that the former restrictions now become meaningless. Primarily, this retreat is a concession to Mr. John L.

Lewis, but the Administration might have stood firm against that defiant figure had it not been for the pressure of the CIO and AFL leaders who, though under the White House wing, threatened to wreck the board unless its former authority to raise wages were restored to it. Proclaiming their patriotism and denouncing Mr.

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

"Here you are, my pampered pet!" she smiled, setting the gay little tray on Ann's knees as she sat propped against the pillows. Ann stared at the donkey, and smiled. "Vince would play you for this—but I'll say you have an excellent sense of humor!" she giggled.

"I have. It's just one of my many little talents that go unused and unappreciated!"

Ann untied the note and read it. "He is so sorry," she told Julia, looking up. "A fortune teller! Isn't that just ducky?" Julia smiled.

"I—maybe I was—a little unkind," conceded Ann. "You said it. I might even remind you you were a bit of a hellion last night!" said Julia firmly.

"It was sweet of Vince to send me these heavenly roses," remarked Ann. She sipped her orange juice and re-read his little note. "He thought of all this even if he did have a hangerover this morning!"

"Which shows he puts you ahead of himself, my sweetie pie! Hangover or no hangover, he apologized in practical form. It's ironical," said Julia, "that after last night you should wake fair as the dawn! Or was it merely an emotional binge? You certainly threw a swell tantrum

Pastor

Almighty and Eternal God, in whom we live and move and have our being, we thank thee for having protected us with thy might, and for having brought us to this day. We know that it is not human strength or ingenuity which provides us with life and its essentials, but the might and the love of God. Keep us ever under the shadow of thy wing, that we might there be protected from the onslaughts of life, and so strengthened that we might overcome the temptations which constantly confront us in this day. ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

There's a new kind of comedy treat in store for moviegoers in "Margin For Error," a rollicking picturization of the Broadway laugh hit by Clare Boothe Luce, who wrote "The Women."

Featuring Joan Bennett, Milton Berle and Otto Preminger, the film arriving today at the Grand Theatre takes you on a hilarious tour through the New York consulate of the Nazis looking for laughs. And men, it's murder!

The second feature is "The Falcon's Brother" starring George Sanders.

RITZ THEATRE

Playing opposite Roy Rogers in "Heart of the Golden West" (now showing at the Ritz Theatre), Ruth Terry once again demonstrates her sterling talents as a singer, actress and comedienne.

Miss Terry was born in 1920 in Benton Harbor; her father was a prominent business man there. When in her early teens she sang at numerous local entertainments, and was induced to enter the Paul Ash singing contest, which she won, hands down.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Excitement and thrill run riot over the Bristol Theatre this week where "The Fighting Devil Dogs," a swift moving film thriller, is currently on view for public approval.

Lee Powell and Herman Brix, who will be remembered for their outstanding work in "The Lone Ranger," score heavily in the roles of two U. S. Marine lieutenants who are assigned to the task of tracking down and bringing to justice a band of international enemies.

The rest-pause that refreshes

Welcome in peace...
more welcome in war work

ASK plant managers what a rest-pause means to workers in war production . . . more work-contentment. And contentment increases output. Add refreshment to a rest-pause and the feeling of contentment is increased. That's a reason why you find ice-cold Coca-Cola so welcome in war plants.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola goes beyond just quenching thirst to bring you refreshment. Its delicious goodness always delights your taste. Here is a drink made with a finished art, quality you count on. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things . . . a way to turn to refreshment without turning from work.

Try ice-cold Coca-Cola with your lunch. You'll like the way its taste and refreshment add to the pleasure of eating.

VOLTZ NINE DROPS GAME; FAILS TO HIT IN PINCHES

Rohm & Haas Team Beats Gasoline Boys by Score of 2 to 0

STRATTON HITS THREE

Game Developed Into Pitching Duel Between Cervellero and Bartholomew

BRISTOL SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
DIAMOND and VOLTZ-TEXACO
(Rohm and Haas field)

Failure to hit in the pinches caused the Voltz-Texaco nine to drop its second straight game in the Bristol Suburban League last evening as the Rohm and Haas team emerged victorious by the score of 2-0. The game was played on the Maple Beach field and it was the first win of the season for the chemical workers.

The gasolene outfit the winners, 6-3, with three of the hits going to Dick Stratton, former RCA catcher, who had a perfect night with a single, double and triple. Only one of the trio of bingles made by the Rohm and Haas team was responsible in the scoring.

The game turned out to be a pitching duel between Paul Cervellero, of the winners, and "Bill" Bartholomew, of Voltz. Cervellero was backed by excellent support on the part of his third-sacker, "George" Ritter and his shortstop, "Chuck" Klein. This pair handled 11 chances without a misstep and to aid them on, Johnny Dick had four tries without an error. One of the two errors chalked against the Voltz-men gave the Rohm and Haas team a rally.

The only earned marker of the tilt was registered in the first frame. G. Ritter worked Bartholomew for a pass. Klein sacrificed him to second. After Dick struck out, Hunter slammed a double to center to score Ritter. Sullivan was an easy out.

Alex Dewsnap's error gave the Rohm and Haas nine its second counter in the third inning. Cervellero walked and went to second on a passed ball. Ritter and Klein were easy outs and Dick lifted an easy fly to Dewsnap which should have pocketed without trouble but he missed and Cervellero scored. Dick died trying to steal second.

The gun may fire an anti aircraft 50 calibre shell or a broadside from the 16 inch guns of a great battleship, but in either event the "powder monkey" must pass millions of dollars' worth of ammunition to make the gun effective, and your savings in War Bonds are necessary to supply the financial ammunition that provides the shells.

attempt by Nazi Raiders to pierce the London defenses and bomb the capital in reprisal for attacks which crippled the industrial Ruhr and Weser valleys.

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 19 — Hailing the brilliant RAF bombing of the Ruhr dams in Germany as "the most convincing illustration yet of the potential destructive force of air power," Pacific air leaders today envisioned a fate similar to that of the Moehne and Eder dams for all Japanese industry once American airmen are within striking range.

"The Ruhr represents the first practical application of air power to the all-around task of choking Axis life," said one high officer. "It is significant because it proves the only feasible way to smash the enemy's essential military objectives is by air," he added.

Seven Sowings Needed for All-Summer Salad Leaves

Green, leafy vegetables supply your family with Vitamin A and calcium, the vitamin and mineral which are expected to be scarce in war time rationing.

The green leafy vegetables include the leaf crops which are served uncooked in salads. If you like bowl salads, you can serve one at least once a day without complaint.

Many leaves can be used for bowl salad, including all the greens which are also cooked. But our chief reliance will probably be on leaf lettuce and endive, especially the form known as escarole, or broad leaved endive. How can one or the other of these fine vegetables be made available for bowl salad from early summer until killing frosts arrive in the fall?

Leaf lettuce will be large enough to use in 20 days from sowing, and can be sown April 15, let us assume. The weather will determine the exact date. If we sow a twenty foot row April 15, it will produce daily salads for a family of four from May 15 to June 4, and a second 20 foot row sown about May 5, will be ready to use June 5 and provide lettuce until June 25. A third sowing of the same size, if made May 25, will be ready a month later and will probably give you the last harvest of lettuce before midsummer heat begins to make this crop go to seed.

During the hot weather we must depend on escarole, which takes 90 days to mature. By sowing a row April 15, at the same time as the first lettuce sowing, we may have it ready July 15 when trouble with lettuce usually begins. Two 20-foot sowings of endive, made twenty days apart, will provide you with daily salad leaves until August 24.

In the meanwhile you will have sown as a succession crop to peas, turnips, beans, or carrots which have been sown in June, another row of leaf lettuce and another of endive. The lettuce should be ready late in August, and it will be followed by the escarole in the fall, when it is most delicious. This will complete your 120 days or more of green salad leaves, harvested from your garden continuously, in fine quality and abundant supply.

This, you will note, takes seven separate sowings, spaced at carefully estimated intervals, and requires that 140 feet of garden space be devoted to these two vegetables. Obviously if you sow all 140 feet at once early in the spring, as may be done, in poorly planned gardens, you will have a superabundance of green leaves in the early summer, and do without the rest of the season.

It is impossible to give any gardener a complete pattern of his planting schedule; he must figure it out himself, and it must be closely related to his actual family needs.

of George School. They are of the amphibian group as they lay eggs in water, breathe first by gills, and later breathe with their lungs. "Books vary greatly in their use of the words toads and frogs. Popular usage calls a warty skin that of a toad; a smooth one that of a frog." Mr. Carson had two live specimens at hand—one a tree frog called also tree toad and spring pepper, scientifically named Hyla crucifer. The name crucifer was given because of a cross on its back. This is a very small toad but in mating season, the male has a very strong voice. Hylas are not very easy to see on trees because of their small size and protective coloring, and their quiet day-time habit. Many people call the hyla's voice a sure sign of spring. It is not known exactly when they like best to hibernate but in early spring many of them seek rather shallow pools for egg laying. The Hyla versicolor is a type met with also in this section. Both hylas may be heard as late as August. Hylas cling to tree trunks by means of adhesive disks on the ends of their toes.

The second toad studied was a less-known one called Spade foot toad (Scaphiopus holbrookii). Its hind feet were fully webbed, with two spurs used for digging. It has a prominent parotid gland (an enlargement above ear behind the eye). It was very much larger than the hyla. It, too, hibernates. It also goes through the metamorphosis from egg to tadpole to toad.

The food of toads was stressed. Many authorities feel toads are of great value to man because of the number of insects and slugs they daily consume. At the conclusion of this most interesting zoology lesson, the speaker gave some reference books for further study.

Seven new names were placed on the membership roll. It was announced that meetings will be held on the third Saturday of each of the next five months—post card notices being sent out bi-monthly. The June 19th meeting will be held in Newtown School. The July and August sessions will probably be held out of doors.
